

Descendants of Joseph Stuckey

Generation 1

1. JOSEPH¹ STUCKEY was born on 12 Jul 1825 in France. He died on 05 Feb 1902 in Danvers, McLean, Illinois, USA. He married Barbara Roth, daughter of Christian Roth and Barbara Goldschmidt, on 17 Dec 1844. She was born on 01 Mar 1821 in France. She died on 27 Apr 1881 in Danvers, McLean, Illinois, USA.

North Danvers Mennonite Church: Connection to the Past, Commitment to the Future

The North Danvers Mennonite Church and congregation has a long history marked with several significant contributions to the community, the conference and the Mennonite Church as a whole.

Formation

From 1830 to 1850, a large number of Amish and Mennonite families settled along the Mackinaw River and in the northwest corner of what is now McLean County. These families worshipped in homes, as was the custom. In 1853, an Amish congregation led by Jonathan Yoder grew too large to meet in homes, and built a church just south of Rock Creek, in the approximate center of the church community. This church house was called the Rock Creek Meetinghouse, and the congregation was called the "Rock Creek Amish", or "Yoder" Church.

By 1872, under the guidance of Jonathan Yoder and Joseph Stuckey, the congregation had grown too large for the Rock Creek Meetinghouse. A new, larger meetinghouse was built and named the North Danvers Church. The congregation was called the "North Danvers" or "Stuckey Amish" Church. Over time, the congregation became more progressive, demonstrating, "a concern for what people have in their heads and hearts, rather than for what they have on their heads ... an emphasis on heart attitudes, rather than on the outward forms ... church workers called to be ambassadors of Christ through the will of God."

Connections

From 1872 to 1926, remarkable activity was shown by North Danvers ministers in reaching out to congregations in Illinois, Indiana, Idaho, Michigan, Kansas, and Nebraska, organizing Sunday Schools and counseling emerging churches. Joseph Stuckey traveled to the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Michigan, Kansas, and Missouri, in the interests of needy churches, ordaining ministers and bishops, dedicating churches, counseling emerging congregations, and establish new congregations. Peter Schantz assisted in organizing churches and starting Sunday Schools, mostly in central Illinois. At first, these churches were frequently referred to as the "Stuckey Churches".

Beginning in 1899, members from several of the churches in this group met together informally on an annual basis for "discussion and mutual guidance". By 1907, twelve churches were involved in the annual meetings. At this time, the group formally organized as the Central Illinois Conference of Mennonites, and "Amish" was officially dropped from the North Danvers Church name.

Through the organization of the Central Conference, support was provided for ministers and Sunday School teachers, several rural and urban churches were established, as well as the Mennonite Nursing Hospital in Bloomington, Illinois and an elderly care facility in Meadows, Illinois. Bluffton College and Witmarsum Theological Seminary (reorganized in 1945 as the Mennonite Biblical Seminary) were founded.

During the last 100+ years, North Danvers Mennonite Church has remained active in many areas. In 1908, it hosted the first session of the Central Illinois Conference of Mennonites. Since that time, it has hosted or co-hosted several Central Conference Mennonite Church conferences, the Middle District Conference sessions in 1954, and the joint Central District and Illinois Mennonite Conference in 1981.

In 1957, North Danvers helped host the conference in which the Central Conference and Middle District Conference merged to form the Central District Conference of the General Conference Mennonite Church.

The North Danvers Church building was renovated in 1910 and 1917. A new addition was added in 1965, and a heat pump installed in 2012. In 1880, a cemetery was started to the east of the church. In 1953, the North Danvers congregation held a centennial celebration of the 100 years since the Rock Creek Meetinghouse was built.

Generation 1 (con't)

In 1982, A Goodly Heritage: A History of the North Danvers Mennonite Church by Steven R. Estes, was published, to help highlight North Danvers' homecoming celebration. The sequel, A Goodly Heritage II: Our Journey Continues, by the same author, was published in 2009.

In 2001, North Danvers Church celebrated their 150th anniversary, inviting all congregations with a Stuckey Amish origin to participate in the festivities. Nine churches planned and implemented a weekend of celebration and renewal.

Notes for Albert David Stuckey:

Early growth and change of name

The early growth of Danvers was extremely slow. Although both Hall and Robb lived in the area, neither was a resident of the town. The first building in Concord was erected in 1837 by Nicholas

Generation 3 (con't)

Conger, but Conger himself does not seem to have lived there. The first actual resident was Asa Rankin. Eventually a small mill was erected by Hobson and Havens. In the words of the 1879 county history, "For more than six years the place was nearly lifeless."^[7] In 1848 or 1849 a Post office was established in Concord.^[8] Most of the early rural settlement around the new town was near Stout's Grove, which began just west of Concord, and for the first twenty years of the town's life the prairie to the north east and south was used mainly as open grazing land. In 1836 Illinois had no way of regulating town names and popular names were frequently repeated. There were at least two other places in Illinois named Concord. Therefore, in 1861, the name of the town was changed to Danvers. The new name was taken from the town of Danvers in Essex County, Massachusetts. During the late 1840s and early 1850s the town grew more rapidly. Danvers was incorporated as a village, under a special charter on 7 May 1869.^[9] Railroads and inter-urbans

In the late 1850s and 1860s, farmers began moving into of the prairies around newly renamed town and the town became the center of an exceptionally productive agricultural district. It became clear that if Danvers was going to ship s grain a railroad was essential. In the 1850s the Illinois Central and the Chicago and Alton railroads had both passed through McLean County, but neither came close to Danvers. A town meeting was held and it was decided that Danvers would, subscribe to $50,000 in railroad bonds. Many other communities in the state were taking similar action, something most of them came to regret: the bonds were quickly sold in the Europe or the East and the taxpayers of towns and townships were forced to pay for railroads that often provided indifferent service. On November 25, 1869 a celebration was held in Danvers to hail the arrival of the first train. A great public picnic was held and large amounts of chicken, oysters and coffee were consumed.^[10] Scheduled rail service would continue until December 1982 and the last train special train stopped in Danvers in August 1984.^[11] In 1907 Danvers also became a stop on the electric interurban railroad. These tracks were laid along Exchange Street and passed through the center of the town. The Illinois Traction System operated long after similar electric railroads in other areas had closed. In 1942 the interurban tracks were threatened when the government scoured the country for surplus metal to supply war needs, but citizens protested that the electric railroad was vital to local people and saved great amounts of gasoline. Service on the interurban finally ended on February 21, 1953.^[12] Later years

In 1870 the population of Danvers was 356. By 1900 it had climbed to 607 and by 1950 to 762.^[13] However, by 2000 it was over 1100;
